planning for the next 15 years.

Presence as an Exhibitor

Metropolis used its stand to present its main areas of action and to offer a strategic meeting point between member cities and their stakeholders.

Organizers of a Networking Session

As part of WUF7, Metropolis, together with UN-Habitat and INTA, organized a networking session with the main theme being “Equitable Cities: Fixing Spatial, Social and Economic Inequalities Through Integrated Governance, Planning and Development”.

The session, moderated by the Metropolis General Secretary, involved the presence of the Mayor of Johannesburg, the Mayor of Cali, the President of the environment department at the Barcelona Metropolitan Area (AMB) and the Vice-President of Greater Lyon.

Of note during the session were two statements among the many made by the speakers on the metropolitan phenomenon and how it is an irreversible process today:

“How metropolitan mechanisms can offer greater equity, both among the municipalities that comprise the metropolitan system and among their inhabitants” and also “The metropolitan project must be considered as a necessary condition to build territorial solidarity, a necessary condition for universal access to urban services, and a necessary condition for the ‘right to the city’”.

Collaboration with UN-Habitat

Finally, Metropolis participated in the meeting of the UN-Habitat's World Urban Campaign (WUC) steering committee and was also present at the meeting of the United Nations' Advisory Committee of Local Authorities (UNACLA). At both meetings, of note was the imminent challenge cities face to ensure their opinions can be assessed by national governments in the post-2015 period and at Habitat III.
