

MGET

The "Metropolitan Governance of the Energy Transition (MGET)" project aims to complement, with a metropolitan dimension, the urban governance of the energy transition initiated by the City of Dakar.

In 2016, Dakar launched its process of developing a "Territorial Climate and Energy Plan". The MGET project will ensure the continuity of Dakar's efforts in the field of energy transition by extending it to a metropolitan context. This project will involve collaboration between Metropolis, the cities of Dakar and Madrid, the Metropolitan Area of Barcelona and Medcities, and will focus on strengthening capacities and knowledge in the governance of the energy transition in the metropolitan territory of Dakar, as well as promoting dialogue between different sectors (civil society, private sector, universities, etc.) acting on the theme.
