PILOT PROJECT

Participatory Democracy

Participatory democracy is a process of collective decision making that combines elements from both direct and representative democracy: Citizens have the power to decide on policy proposals and politicians assume the role of policy implementation.

The central axis of this project is to promote the exchange of successful experiences for participatory democracy, with a special focus on Participatory budgeting, and generate knowledge that allows its strengthening in the metropolises.

An analysis of the policies carried out in the different municipalities of the project will be undertaken and generate policy recommendations for an effective implementation.

Goals

- Increase the institutional capacities of metropolises for the construction of more cohesive and inclusive cities
- Creating toolkits systematizing experiences of the pilot project, that will be disseminated to other metropolises to promote the active participation of citizens in their territory
