Mapping a Green Future —Webinars on Urban Planning under the Park City Initiative

20 May. 2021

Large metropolises are home to many of the development and environmental challenges facing the world's population today. To address these challenges, Chengdu, capital of southwest China's Sichuan province, launched its Park City Initiative in 2017. Rather than simply creating green spaces in the urban setting, the idea behind Park City Initiative is to build a 'city within a park', generating a new type of development path which bridges the people, city, industry and nature.

The two-sessions webinar organized by Metropolis Learning Hub Chengdu with a focus on urban planning will offer a chance for urban planners, city managers and urban development experts to meet and exchange views on planning for sustainable development and the vision of future cities.
