Metropolis and the Guangzhou Foreign Affairs Office signed an Agreement on 15 July 2021. The official signing ceremony was held virtually between the new Regional Secretary for the Asia Pacific region, Zhan Decun, and Secretary General Octavi de la Varga. The historic three-year Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with Guangzhou focuses on expanding Metropolis' mission and strengthening our Strategic Action Plan worldwide for the 2021-2023 period.

Guangzhou has been a member of Metropolis since 1993 and member of the Board of Directors for many years. Since 2014, Guangzhou has stepped up its participation to play a leading role in the association, and it now operates the Metropolis Regional Secretariat for the Asia Pacific region and currently acts as President of the association.

As one of the planet's 33 megacities (a city with at least 10 million inhabitants), Guangzhou embodies the metropolisation process—a phenomenon that is taking place worldwide and is unprecedented in the history of humanity. It is a city noted for its rich and colourful history and culture; as one of China's central cities, it's also an international trade and commercial centre and integrated transportation hub. With a 2.36 trillion-yuan gross regional product in 2019, the city is one of the most open, prosperous and market-oriented metropolitan areas in China, serving a population of more than 22 million. During its 2,200 years of history, Guangzhou was a stop on the ancient Maritime Silk Road, was home to Lingnan culture as well as China's modern revolution, and stands at the forefront of Chinese reform and opening-up. In 2016, Guangzhou topped the list on the UNDP's Human Development Index out of all the cities on the Chinese mainland.

This agreement is part of Metropolis' Alliances with its Granting Members, which are alliances with Metropolis members supported by one of our member cities.
